There was little of animation in the stock market Saturday, but the speculation was generally firm in tone, although the grangers and Sugar, Distilling, Louisville & Nashville and a few other stocks show fractional losses on the day's transactions. Except for Long Island Traction, which declined 1% per cent, on small offerings, the market was firm in the early dealings, but the gains were small. Rubber reacted 14 per cent, but quickly rallied and sold up 14 per cent. Toward 11 o'clock a realizing movement sent the leading stocks down a fraction. In the final dealings there were some small gains in part of the list and the market closed in fairly good tone with prices on the day irregular. In the list of advances is Southern Pacific, 2% per cent. The grangers are down 18614 per cent.;

Cordage, 1 per cent., and a few others a Speculation during the week was rather light in volume, owing partly to the fact that the foreigners were not in the market that the foreigners were not in the market to any great extent, and also because of the profe-sional character of the trading and the lack of outside support. The grangers moved up and down according to the tenor of the dispatches touching the crop situation, but at the close prices of these shares show but slight changes compared with the figures at the close of the preceding week. Considerable interest was manifested in the industrial stocks, particularly Rubber, which came into good demand by reason of the advance in prices of the product. This led to an advance in the common of 7 per cent, and the preferred of 2 per cent. Liquidations were in progress during the week in the shares of the Susquehanna & Western Railroad Company, the common reacting 3 per cent. and the preferred 7 per cent. The decline was due to bear rumors. chief among which was one to the effect that the company would default on interest due June 1 on the first mortgage bonds of the Wilkesbarre & Eastern, which the officers of the company denied strenuously. The sales of the week were 1,035,000 shares, and 151 stocks were traded in. The principal changes on the week are: Advances-Alton & Terre Haute, 10 per cent.; Long Island Traction, 3; Mobile & Ohio, Southern Pacific and Minneapolis & St. Louis seconds preferred, 21/2; Minneapolis & St. Louis preferred trust receipts, 5; General Electric, 24. and Flint & Pere Marquette preferred. 2. Declines-Erie, 3% per cent.; Great Northern preferred, 3; Manhattan, 2½, and Buffalo, Rochester & Pittsburg, 2 per cent. The bond market, Saturday, was quiet and without special feature, the sales aggregating only $869,000. Louisville & Nashville, N. O. & M. firsts, advanced 3 per cent.; New Jersey Ceneral general fives, 51's and Chesapeake & Ohio, R. & A. firsts, consols, J. in Peoria & Eastern.

while declines were recorded of 1 per cent. The bond speculation during the week was quiet. The results of the week's operations are as follows: Declines-Baltimore Ohio Southwestern consol, four-and-a halfs, 614; Atchison, Colorado & Pacific firsts, 5; Baltimere & Ohio fives, registered, 312; Susquehanna & Western refunding fives, 34 and Wheeling & Lake Erie firsts, Wheeling division, 3 per cent. LOCAL GRAIN AND PRODUCE.

Slow Day in Trade, with No Important Change in Values.

Trade on the wholesale streets Saturday was quiet, but on Commission row considerable was doing in fruits and vegetables. Poultry, eggs and butter are all in good request at quotations, with light receipts. Oranges and apples are practically off the market. Strawberries continue to come in in considerable quantities and prices rule weak. The flour market is active and unsettled. AMUSEMENTS.

Novelty of the Season at the Park This Week-Continuous Performances.

The continuous show, so popular in New York, Boston, Philadelphia, St. Louis and Chicago, is a novelty here. It has been immensely successful in those cities and should be so in Indianapolis. To-morrow, at 2 p. m., will mark the first appearance here.

of the Baldwin & Young continuous show.

Much curiosity has already been aroused, and judging from the interest manifested in the performances the novelty of the entertainment will serve to attract large audiences. The company that comes to the Park Theater this week has made a record in the cities where it has appeared. Few people in the smaller cities have ever seen performances of this kind. The Baldwir & of refined vaudeville acts, but also presents popular plays by a regular stock dramatic company, the members of which are not specialty performers. The dramatic feature of the show is headed by W. H. Murdoch and Miss Mate Stevens, both capable people, and they are surrounded by a good com-

The performances here will open with several specialties, after which an act of the drama will be given. Then more specialties, and so on through the afternoon and evening. The plays to be produced here will be: Monday, Tuesday and Wednesday, the comedy drama, "Passion's Slave;"

Campbell's great comedy success, "Fate."

Thursday, Friday and Saturday, Bartley

Among the specialty performers who will be seen are: Dixon, Bowers and Dixon;

Moreland and Thompson, the Boumans, Irvin T. Bush, Bonnie Lottie, Robetta and Doretta, the Victorellis, Harry Castle, Sis-

A Reversion of Type.

It is a well-established fact that there is constant tendency in the animal kingdom for the offspring to revert to primary types of its race. Taking the most commonly observed instances-those furnished by the poultry yard-we may by crossing the Plynouth Rocks with the Langshans apparently produce a new breed, yet the next gen-eration of chicks, instead of showing the characteristics of their parents, will revert to the types of their grandparents. It is a mournful fact that they develop especially the defects of those ancestors instead of their excellencies. In fact, they may be said to revert to the remote types of which their grandparents by long cultivation had become the more or less perfect develop-

The price remained very steady and firm in the last forty-five minutes at around 79%c, and that was the value at the end. The corn market was firmer and a little higher on account of the hot, dry weather predicted for the next forty-eight hours and the strength was not disturbed by any estimated heavy receipts, as for several days back. The prices paid at the opening of the market were the highest for the day, and closing trades were at the bottom of the range and 1/sc above the latest quotations of the day before. July opened at 53c and closed worth 52%c. Only a fair business was transacted in oats. Orders were not very urgent, and sellers did not seem overanxious to dispose of stuff. A firm feeling existed, and values at the close were from %c to %c higher. The strength was due mainly to sympathy with wheat and corn.

The receipts of hogs were liberal, the quality poor and prices lower, with a large supply estimated for the coming week. Elsewhere. CHICAGO, June 1.-A limited Saturday business was transacted at Friday's prices. Common to choice native dressed beef and shipping steers were weighing 1,000 to 1,500 lbs and selling at $3.75@5.50, with very choice beeves scarce and calves at $5.60@ 5.80. Mona Lisa. New York Times.

A New York woman wandering among Paris art treasures is thus impressed: "The memory of one woman's smile," she writes, "has set a whole world in tune. For no "has set a whole world in tune. For no picture known, perhaps, has touched so many hearts as that bit of dull, dusky canvas out of which the 'Mona Lisa' of Leonardo da Vinci smiles at you. The first feeling when you look at her is one of disappointment. Her smile mocks you. But go a little to the right, and, oh, how sad the smile is, or stand at the left, and it has the smile is, or stand at the left, and it has become the joyous smile of childhood, dimpling the corners of her mouth, while, if you look her straight in the face, her mood has changed again. You know then that she has solved this mystery which we call life and can still smile. Now, as you turn away you find that she bewitched you; her language and slow smile follow you draw. guld eyes and slow smile follow you, drawing again and again your seeking gaze. You forget the divine message of the 'Immacu-late Conception,' the face of Vandyke's 'Cnaries the First,' the sorrowful note of Titian's 'Entombment,' the gentle 'Madonna' of Raphael, the brilliant phrasing of Rubens, the insistance of Paul Veronese. For you only one picture in this famous room of a famous gallery lives. What matters that the canvas is old and small, the colors faded, the flesh gray? The spirit that lies imprisoned in the Mona Lisa's smile will never grow old; and because a woman's smile was, as it has illuminated the work of one man's hands, placing him on the heights in the vast world

PATRIOTISM IN JEWELRY. The Thoroughly American Girl Takes

to American Gems. San Francisco Examiner. The Atlanta girl who refused to accept her lover until he gave her a betrothal ring studded with a Georgia diamond set a fashion which is being followed in the spirit not in the letter. American gems have a reputable history The Empress Eugenie, as long ago as 1857 paid $2,500 for the queen pearl, which was found near Paterson, N. J., but that was a purely commercial transaction. In these days of Colonial Dames and Daughters of the Revolution the patriotic beauty thinks it a duty to wear Montana sapphires and the Arizona garnet is the fad of the patriotic brunette, irrespective of the gem value of the stones.

American jewels are having their inning, and since American diamonds are rare articles, North Carolina rock crystal, or, bet ter yet, the clear white gold quartz of California, or that very brilliant stone, the Rocky mountain diamond, is made prime favorite without blush or trembling. At the opera in New York recently the tiara which adorned the woman of the highest fashion in the boxes, and which by its own beauty attracted general attention, was composed of a green gold band, set thickly with West-ern brilliants, rising to a blazing sun above the forehead, and having a pendant of American pearls dropping over the right liants are not worn now as imitations of the diamond, but, frankly, as rock crystal. Hence it is not bad taste to buy them. The art of cutting and polishing has been so developed that each stone is chosen deliberately as a beautiful specimen. Quartz veined with fine gold is set as panels in the new furniture of the new nillionairesses. Native silver in a matrix, Lake Superior agate, Wyoming moss agate, smoky topaz from Pike's Peak, turquoise in the matrix and other bright minerals are used to heighten the effect, but people with fewer dollars limit their desires to black, white or rose quartz brooches, pins, fan sticks or perfume bottles. A beautiful seent bottle of fine opalescent highly prized objects in Mrs. George Gould's jewel case. The most beautiful ornaments of recent make into which garnets enter largely are belts and belt buckles of native copper lavishly studded with red stones found on the Navajo reservation, where the Indians col lect them from the scorpion hills in the sand. Mrs. Levi P. Morton's oldest daughter wears a woven gold circle with tiny rose quartz from Arkansas is one of the yellow garnets of exquisite color. The golden girdle that finishes a tea gown or a princess dress so royally is set sometimes with as many as five hundred different American stones. The wife of a successful New York artist wears one which flashes like an aurora. Whenever her husband wants a color inspiration she is bidden to put it on and sit in the studio. One of America's richest women ordered some weeks ago a crescent of sapphires for her hair. She furnished the stones from her own collection. They were all from the gravel of the upper Missouri river bars, and shaded in color from red at the end of the ornament to bluish red in the middle and blue at the other end. Montana sapphires are most in demand, but some of those from Colorado are very beautiful. The American turquoise has become popular stone. It is mounted in sets o jewelry that comprise, tiara, necklace, ring and pendant brooch. Sometimes diamonds are added, making an especially brilliant combination for a blonde. Most of the turquoise comes from Santa Fe.

The pearl is the fashionable gem of the winter, but it did not need the American craze to exploit the famous Lower California fisheries. The pride of the Spanish regalia is an enormous pearl secured near Loreto by a Mexican diver. American fresh water pearl fisheries do not yield as they did thrity years ago, but bigger prices are obtained for fine stones. Very elaborate ornaments in pompons slender head bands and necklaces are studded with American pearls. When these are blended with the American garnets they form, indeed, exquisite pieces of jewelry Combs made of gold bars of diamond tipped at the top with pearls, are seen in the hair of all girls who can afford them. The solid diamond mercury wings, with Oregon or Mexican fire opals for coloring. are remarkably chic in a well-coiffured

The mysterious jade which is now found in some parts of America and is claimed by some of the geologists as a native stone, is mounted in gold, embellished with gar-nets, sapphires and tourmalines, and used as an ornament for bracelets, girdles and hair pieces.

Some of the newest bracelets are entirely composed of diamonds, sapphires, rubles and agates, strung like beads. These make quaint but attractive arm decorations. Mrs. William K. Vanderbilt wears sometimes a heavy rope of pierced beads, but few other women can afford to so ruin valuable jew-

The fin de siecle woman emulates the immoderate love Queen Elizabeth had for jewels as dress trimmings, and gems of great value are made up into buttons. Colored amethysts are the latest dress fasteners. Tourmaline buttons for coats are affected by those who love to cater to superstition. Tourmaline is supposed to carry with it the power of quieting the nerves. Lillian Russell doesn't look nervous, but her winter coat is buttoned with tourmaline Nothing in the world is so indestructible as a precious stone, hence nothing is more appreciated as a gift to an American girl than an American gem.
